Design a Lighthouse Holiday Brochure

SCHOOLS' COMPETITION with Prizes

Trinity House is calling on all primary schools to design a brochure or website to encourage holidaymakers to visit its lighthouses and nearby attractions on our English and Welsh coasts.

As an exciting project it will encourage creative writing. And there are great opportunities to use a variety of media – photography, video, graphics, drawings and maps – to give an added boost to IT and art and design skills.

Trinity House has a number of lighthouses with visitor centres which schools can visit to take photographs and video footage of the lighthouse and surrounding scenery and attractions. Pupils need to think of what would attract both the young and the old and cater for people with different interests – from amusement parks and local history to bird watching and fishing.

As an added bonus, pupils will see their best efforts put forward to a national competition, with prizes to recognise class achievements.

Further details of the competition and how to enter will be sent to purchasers of the Life on the Rocks pack. Further details will also be available on
